

Readable text below layout

Local artists from left: Marita Brodie of Suva and Elle Chae of Nadi with their work, will be on display at the Fiji Arts Club tomorrow. Photo: Tevita Rabonu

Art exhibition on

THE Fiji Arts Club is expecting close to 400 people at their ANZ Bank sponsored annual Art Exhibition Competition at the Fiji Arts Club on Wednesday night.

The club's Director of Arts, Jeremy Droga yesterday said people attending the exhibition would include embassy officials and Government ministers.

"The opening of the event will be done by ANZ manager David Bell and chief guest is Caretaker Welfare Minister Ro Teimumu Kepa," Mr Droga said.

The competition has also taken in works from street kids. The club hopes to fund projects for the kids from the money raised by the exhibition.

"The response is overwhelming because at the moment we have close to 120 exhibits and we're expecting some more to come in."

A panel of seven judges including French, Fijian, Indo-Fijian and Asians will decide on who receives top honours.

Mr Droga said the exhibition will move to Nadi next week.

THE Fiji Arts Club is expecting close to 400 people at their ANZ Bank sponsored annual Art Exhibition Competition at the Fiji Arts Club on Wednesday night.

The club's Director of Arts, Jeremy Droga yesterday said people attending the exhibition would include embassy officials and Government ministers.

"The opening of the event will be done by ANZ manager David Bell and chief guest is Caretaker Welfare Minister Ro Teimumu Kepa," Mr Droga said.

The competition has also taken in works from street kids. The club hopes to fund projects for the kids from the money raised by the exhibition.

"The response is overwhelming because at the moment we have close to 120 exhibits and we're expecting some more to come in."

A panel of seven judges including French, Fijian, Indo-Fijian and Asians will decide on who receives top honours.

Mr Droga said the exhibition will move to Nadi next week.